Part III (2.5 điểm): Reading

A. Read the article below and decide if the statements are True or False. (1.25 điểm)

TRUE

if the statement agrees with the information

FALSE if the statement contradicts the information

Health experts say that many of us don't get enough sleep and, that unlike previous generations—who regularly got a full eight hours—we have too many distractions. Many of us have a demanding work life, we are constantly connected to our devices, and we feel as if we are on call 24/7. All of these pressures tend to keep us up at night. We just can't seem to switch off and unwind at the end of the day. This lack of sleep results in frustration and exhaustion for many people.

But did people really get eight solid hours of sleep in past generations? New research into sleep patterns in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries suggests that they did not. In fact, most people did not sleep through the night. Instead, they would sleep in two separate segments. For the first segment, they would sleep starting when it was too dark to see until about midnight. Then they would get up and engage in quiet activities, often by candlelight, for an hour or two. They would write in their journals, check on their animals, or do some work in the kitchen to prepare for the following day. Then, they would go back to sleep for another three to four hours, waking at dawn. This practice must have worked for them. They couldn't have gotten so much work done if they were constantly exhausted.

But this all changed with the invention of electric lighting. People started staying up later and later, sometimes until midnight, so they stopped waking up in the middle of the night to complete tasks. Instead, they would sleep through the night. Also, because fewer and fewer people were working on farms, they didn't need to wake up as early to care for their animals. As a result, more and more people began to sleep in a single segment. Does that mean the eight-hour guidelines are correct? Perhaps, but research on traditional societies living in different parts of the world today suggests otherwise. The full eight hours may still be just wishful thinking for the average adult. Between six and seven hours is probably enough for most of us.

According to the article, adults today are not getting enough sleep because of stress from responsibilities and modern life.

- A. True
- B. False

ANSWER: A

B. Read the text and choose the correct answer to each given question. (1.25 điểm)

"Did you see that?" Joe said to his friend Bill. "You're a great shooter!". Bill caught the basketball and bounced it before throwing it again. The ball flew into the net. "Bill, you never miss!" Joe said admiringly. "Unless I'm in a real game," Bill complained. "Then I miss all the time." Joe knew that Bill was right. Bill performed much better when he was having fun with Joe in the schoolyard than he did when he was playing for the school team in front of a large crowd. "Maybe you just need to practice more," Joe suggested. "But I practice all the time with you!" Bill objected. He shook his head. "I just can't play well when people are watching me." "You play well when I'm watching," Joe pointed out. "That's because I've known you since we were five years old," Bill said with a smile. "I'm just not comfortable playing when other people are around." Joe nodded and understood, but he also had an idea. The next day Joe and Bill met in the schoolyard again to practice. After a few minutes, Joe excused himself. "Practice without me," Joe said to his friend. "I'll be back in a minute." Joe hurried through the school building, gathering together whomever he could find—two students, a math teacher, two secretaries, and a janitor. When Joe explained why he needed them, everyone was happy to help. Joe reminded the group to stay quiet as they all went toward the school's basketball court. As Joe had hoped, Bill was still practicing basketball. He made five baskets in a row without noticing the silent people standing behind him. "Hey, Bill!" Joe called out finally. Bill turned. A look of surprise came over his face. "I just wanted to show you that you could play well with people watching you," Joe said. "Now you'll have nothing to worry about for the next game!"

What would be the best title for the story?

- A. Bill's Basketball Problem
- B. Practice Makes Perfect
- C. Bill Wins the Big Game
- D. Joe Joins the Team

ANSWER: A

In line 8, the word “performed” is closest in meaning to _____.

- A. played
- B. acted
- C. moved
- D. changed

ANSWER: A

Why is Bill upset?

- A. He plays better in practice than he does during games.
- B. The schoolyard is not a good place to practice.
- C. Joe watches him too closely when he plays.
- D. His team loses too many games.

ANSWER: A

Why does Bill play well when Joe is watching him?

- A. He is comfortable with Joe.
- B. Joe tells him how to play better.
- C. He does not know that Joe is there.
- D. He wants to prove to Joe that he is a good player.

ANSWER: A

Why does Joe decide to gather a group of people?

- A. Because he wants to help Bill feel less nervous
- B. Because he wants more players for his team
- C. Because he wants to show them his talent
- D. Because he wants more people to see the next game
